Me and Mike.

Fussing about the lights being out several times Tuesday night, eh... what about that wonderful rain that may break the terrible heat wave and will be of inestimable value to late corn, hay and other forage crops... what about folks in Europe who NEVER have any electric lights... what about those whose water mains have been blasted from the earth... what about those who have little food... what about those who live in caves like savages... what about the boys in African lands and in malaria-infested Guadalupe who are fighting to prevent the lights of civilization from being extinguished. Instead of fussing about the lights being out for a few minutes, preventing you from reading the hot story in the pulp magazine, you had better get down on your knees and thank Almighty God that you are in comparative safety.

Personally, I do not lay great store on the many "leaders" who are flocking to Bailey or to Conner. Most of them are either hired, or are trying to pick the winner to retrieve some of the lost political prestige. If there was ever a day when Mr. so and so had a hundred votes in his pocket, that day has gone, except in cases where the office sought is a minor state office. I had to shell beans longer to get ONE vote for Mike Conner than Jacob had to work for his father-in-law to get the pretty daughter. Votes are not "led" any more.

To those who have no real convictions in the matter, I offer the suggestion that Fielding Wright be chosen as Lt. Governor. He is, in my opinion, the better of the two men for the office.

Well, T. J. Lowry is MY road commissioner too. I had nothing against him. I, like a minority of the folks, thought that Abe Linker was the best man. I wish him well, and, if I can help him make a better commissioner, I shall be happy to do so.

It has been so hellish hot this week that we, I fear, are getting out a mighty sorry paper. It has been too hot to do anything except sit (or stand) in that stuffy court room and hear the evidence and arguments in the Bohrer case. "B. O." was quite prevalent there. It would have taken a whole case of Mum to clear the air.

John W. Bradley is in the Vets Hospital in Memphis, having gone there for operation last Thursday.

We just had to leave out a good deal of type, including a bunch of cards of thanks. We are sorry, but about the matter.

Everyone is using the percentage tables to prove that their man will be the winner. It is, therefore, my privilege to give a few percentages to my friends, the Bailey boys. In the primary in 1939 Bailey ran second in this county and first in the City of Grenada. This year Bailey ran second in the city and poor third in the county. In 1939, Bailey received 367 out of 1013 votes in the City or about 36 percent of the votes; in the county he received 935 votes out of 2354, or 27 percent. This year Bailey received 290 out of 981 in the City or 28 plus percent; in the county he received 465 votes out of 2200 or 21 plus percent. My man Conner who lost City, County and Holcomb in 1939, received a plurality in each unit. He received 37 percent in the county, and about 42 percent in the City. Laugh that off, my Bailey friends.

This year Bailey did not carry ONE box in Grenada county. Even the railroader, Lester Franklin, carried four boxes. Mike Conner led in 7 of the 13 boxes. Until this primary, Conner never led in this county, tho he did not. Even in 1931, when Conner was elected, Conner lost Grenada county to Hugh White. Laugh that off, my Bailey friends.

Why bother with a good man when a good EXPERIENCED man is available?

It looks to me like it would be better political strategy for Tom Bailey to get out of the race for, in that event, his Conner voters almost to a man would vote for him in 1947. It is grand to fight a hopeless fight, but there is no sense in it.

Speaking personally, I hope that I will sometime have the privilege of voting for Tom Bailey, but I am not going to do so when Mike Conner and Tom are arrayed against each other, even tho I get "put out" with Conner sometimes. Conner is not perfect, but who is perfect? The only perfect man was nailed to the Cross on Calvary.

Aint they sweet.

Hung Jury, The Result of Bohrer Mureer Case

A hung jury was the result of the case of the State vs. Mrs. Bohrer and was brought in before noon Wednesday.

The defendant, Mrs. Leona Gertrude Bohrer, of Memphis, was indicted for the murder of her husband, Pvt. Othmar Bohrer, at a local hotel on May 5, 1943.

The jury to try this case was obtained from a special venire summoned to appear in court last Saturday. The jury was finally organized Monday. In a sweltering court house, almost always filled with interested spectators, including many women, the State (represented by District Attorney J. P. Coleman and County Attorney W. M. Mitchell) rested its case about noon Tuesday after having sought to tie an unbreakable chain of circumstantial evidence about the accused and proved that Pvt. Bohrer was found dead in the hotel room with a lamp cord about his neck, that the contents of his stomach contained "knock-out" drops, that only two days before his death he had changed the name of the beneficiary of his government insurance from that of his mother to that of his wife. Several of the men in Pvt. Bohrer's outfit testified that although he had recently been demoted from Sergeant, he did not seem to be despondent, and that apparently the relationship between the soldier and his wife was pleasant. The State failed to show that the victim's nature on the request for change of beneficiary was forced.

The defense, represented by Messrs. Sam Mims, W. B. Nichols and Cowles Horton, rested its case with two witnesses, Tuesday night, although the attorneys made the usual strong plea for dismissal by the court—a plea that was denied by the Court.

COOLEY DOES NOT WANT JAILER'S JOB

To the People of Grenada County:

I wish to make the following statement:

There has been quite a bit of talk in town who would be jailer if Clayton Carpenter is elected Sheriff. So far as I know he has not promised the job to anyone, certainly not to me. However, even should he offer me the job as his jailer I will be unable to accept it as I intend to give my full time to my other business after January 1, 1944.

I want my friends to know that I am 100 percent for Mr. Carpenter in his race for sheriff and will do anything I can to help him. The only reason is that I know he will make you a good sheriff.

I want this plainly understood: I do not desire to be jailer after this election and would not accept the job regardless of who is elected.

With thanks for your favors in the past, I am,

Your friend,

J. M. Cooley.

I THANK YOU

To the People of Grenada County:

I am deeply and sincerely grateful for the splendid vote given me by the people of Grenada County for District Attorney. The majority you gave me on August 3rd (1493 votes) will always be a precious memory to me.

According to the official returns, we carried all of the seven counties by a combined majority of 8,575 votes. This is indeed a manifestation of friendship and confidence for which I could never cease to be grateful. With this to inspire me, I now rededicate every power of my being to the honest, earnest service of my people. With the accumulated experience of four years' service, I shall redouble my efforts to make you a better District Attorney than ever before. I shall continue my policy of fairly enforcing the law to the best of my skill and ability, and invite the cooperation of our citizenship. Please let me know any time I can be of service to you.

Again thanking you, I remain

Your friend,

J. P. COLEMAN.

Red Cross Life Saving Class Receives Emblems and Cards

The Red Cross Life Saving Class received their emblems and cards Wednesday, August 4th at 8 o'clock at the Municipal Pool after a short demonstration of methods of life saving. The demonstration included a chain rescue, rear approach, under water approach, surface approach, tired swimmer's carry, and release of strangled hold.

As the last demonstration, a victim was rescued, taken out of the pool and given artificial respiration. Those who participated in the demonstration were: Joe Turnage, Hal Pleasant, Billy Parham, Mr. Karpeles, Jimmy Nall, and Bobby Turnage.

After the demonstration, Mr. Nelson Douglas, Chairman of the Red Cross First Aid and Water Safety Committee of Grenada presented the certificates and emblems to the class. Some of the boys were not present, but either their father or a younger brother received their card for them.

Besides those who were in the demonstration, the following received their certificates: Kenneth Hamsley, Charles McKnight, Bryce Griffith, Robert H. Alexander, Jimmy Mitchell and Flanny Davis, and Betty Ann Gresham and Jimmy Parham.

Miss Gertrude Bouchard, Club Director of the USO Women's Division and Red Cross Instructor, conducted the demonstration.

JUST FOR FUN

Most of the talk of the town is about the election just passed. Many Mississippi people are working at Camp and at the Air Base, and so there was quite an undercurrent of suspense Wednesday, and great deal of voting, counting, etc.

But in spite of Mike and Murphy, and all the others, life at the Base went the same as usual.

One big change was the promotion of effective the last of July, of Capt. Jack H. Sloan. He is now a gold-leaved Major.

Another big change was the visit of the Inspector General during this week. Offices and Officers with spoils were spruced up as usual.

One day at the Officers' Mess there was even an orchestra playing some of the old popular songs. Speaking of popular songs, Al Goodhart, who has written "Why Don't You Practice What You Preach," "Walking in the Park one Day," "I'm in a Dancin' Mood," and the now popular "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland," is at Camp McCain now, this week, entertaining the soldiers and playing and singing their favorites for them.

To jump back to the Field again, there is now a Badminton course in the evenings for the energetic. Most of the participants are enlisted men. That was pretty subtle, wasn't it?

One officer that the Field hates to see leave is Major Holbrook. His being transferred to the great flat Mid-West, it is being rumored.

Another loss at the Field was that of Mrs. Patterson, little Lou of the Commissary. She's taking up house-keeping in her little room now.

The Service Club officially opened at the Field this Wednesday, August 4, 1943, with local girls attending, formal dresses, and a fine orchestra. The exterior of the club, which resembles the Officers' Club, being built of the same material with a clapboard effect and attractively painted white.

The Library has been open at the Base this week, and it is indeed one to be proud of. It is well lined with new books, and open at convenient hours. Also, it is reasonably cool.

There's a little rumor that Lt. Freeman may have a little three day pass. But that's just a rumor.

Also Miss Hale, of the Field, is at last making that long-planned trip to Little Rock, Arkansas to see her O. A. O. They've been quarreling on and off since September, but this time is the make-up time, she swears.

And with that—we'll swear off the gossip for this week.

HANKINS-WINTER

The official returns show:

Mr. D. P. Hankins received 494 votes in Grenada County and 950 in Montgomery County, or a total of 1354. Mr. W. A. Winter received 1699 votes in Grenada County and 1321 in Montgomery County, a total of 3190, electing Mr. Winter as floater representative from the two counties named.

MOORE-VANDERBERG

The official returns show:

Mr. H. B. Vanderberg, of Water Valley, received 775 votes in Grenada County, and 979 in Yalobusha County, a total of 1095. Mr. James Moore, of Oakland, received 1287 votes in Grenada County and 1388 votes in Yalobusha County, or a total of 2675, which elected Mr. Moore State Senator from the 36th Senatorial District.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYE

By Mrs. W. W. Whitaker

On Friday afternoon of last week, a group of Grenada citizens attended a War-Finance meeting at Winona with representatives from Carroll, Webster, and Montgomery counties.

At this meeting several members of the Mississippi State War Finance Committee spoke, and those who attended the meeting were charged with the responsibility of acquainting the citizenship of their county with the great need for more money to be invested in War Bonds and Stamps.

Mr. Holder, Methodist minister, in whose study the group met, opened the meeting with prayer. Mr. Frank L. Fair, of Louisville, Miss., presided and introduced the two speakers.

The first speaker was Mr. Frank R. McGee, of Greenwood, who is vice-chairman under Mr. Rex I. Brown, of Jackson. The other speaker, Mr. M. U. Swayze, spoke at length, giving a fine lecture on details of the drive. The Third War Loan Drive will start on September 9, 1943, and will continue through the month and American citizens will be asked to loan their government 15 billion dollars. Mississippi's quota will be announced later, but plans are in the making, and every Mississippian will be contacted during this drive by members of various committees. One statement made to the effect that Americans will subscribe to this drive chiefly because earnest citizens will go in the accepted democratic way and ask for this loan, and will present the great need for this loan to our government. They will urge that every idle cent over one's living expenses be put to work to buy supplies for our boys and our Allies. We will be reminded to purchase bonds and stamps rather than to purchase extravagant clothing, food and home equipment. Surely it will be better to lower our standards of "easy living" than to jeopardize our country's safety by being inadequately armed, or to have our boys in the front line trenches in the deadly battle snipe of lack of equipment, or ammunition.

We heard some talk that Germany will be out of the war by 1944, and then it will be only a matter of time until Japan will be blasted off the earth. We do like to brag, don't we? Then back up your brag by buying War Bonds and Stamps—otherwise do not expect the miracle to happen. Unless Uncle Sam has his pockets crammed full of money to get off thousands of air craft, thousands of submarines, millions of men, with full equipment to the battle front, we will fight on for months, possibly years. We will lose millions of our finest sons. They will be sacrificed on the altar of our selfishness, and very little of the ultimate victory will be sweet to us with those boys dead and cold in a strange and lonesome grave.

ANOTHER CONDITION

American people find themselves in an unusual circumstance these days in regards to money. There is an enforced economy regarding installment buying, the purchase of new cars, radio and because of rationing of gas and tires and shoes, and at the same time the family's income is so much greater. Members of the family who, before the emergency arose, never earned a cent, are now drawing a good salary or are receiving a nice allotment from a soldier husband or son and this condition effects nearly every home including the negro citizens as well as the white.

This surplus money must be put to work for the government. It's a loan to Uncle Sam and as we all know a good and fair interest is paid on the investment.

The County Committee will receive instructions from the State Committee, and plenty of advertisement will accompany this Third War Loan Drive. Mr. C. H. Calhoun succeeds Mr. L. J. Doak as County Committeeman and Mrs. E. L. Wilkins continues to serve as Chairman of Women's Work and special activities.

Those to attend the Winona meeting were Messrs. L. J. Doak, H. J. Ray, C. H. Calhoun, B. J. Anderson, and Messrs. E. L. Wilkins, John Martin, Rogers Pleasants, H. L. Honeycutt and W. W. Whitaker, and Miss Mae Caldwell.

"GREY LADIES" ORGANIZATION NEEDS YOU!

The "Grey Ladies" organization of Red Cross Volunteer Workers, in formation and we have been requested to remind you that August 20 is the dead line for getting in your application to become a Grey Lady. To review this work we will state that the Grey Ladies are ladies of the community who can go to the Station Hospital and visit sick boys. You will very much visit with the boys, but perform many little duties of which you are so capable. You may be called in to write letters, do a little shopping for them, attend to small personal matters, such as notifying relatives and friends of changed address or of their condition. Surely your cheerful presence will mean much to these sick boys and now is the time to volunteer for this work. Definite instructions will be given this class and it will prove a splendid service if the ladies of Grenada will volunteer and get this Red Cross service started. Call Mrs. Jennie Lewis at Red Cross office or Mrs. Frank T. Gerard.

CARD FROM L. C. HOWARD

To the People of Grenada County: By this means I want to correct any false impressions that may arise now or later.

Both candidates in the run off primary for sheriff are my friends, and I do not intend to make any efforts in the interest of either; and I do not expect to be appointed deputy by any candidate, and would not accept such appointment if offered me.

With kindest regards to all,

ROGERS PARKER THANKS

Mr. Rogers Parker, running the sheriff's race off with Mr. Clayton Carpenter, asked us to thank the many friends who supported his candidacy for that office. He wishes to urge each of those who voted for him on the 3rd to do it again, and urges that the followers of the eliminated candidates, or so many thereof as can conscientiously do so, to do likewise. He reaffirms his promise to give a courteous and efficient administration, if elected.

BALLOTS READY SATURDAY

Ballots for the run off will be in the hands of the Circuit Clerk Saturday, in time for any man in service in the United States to get and return a ballot.

Mrs. Sallie Fisher Bridgers Died Here Monday Night

Mrs. Sallie Fisher Bridgers, perhaps the oldest white lady in the City, died in her home on College Street Monday night, August 9, 1943 after a three months' illness.

She was a daughter of pioneer settlers of Yalobusha county and her people have been leaders always. She was born in Coffeyville in September, 1843 and the bright mind that she retained permitted her to relate the many incidents that came to her attention during the Civil War and the Reconstruction period following it.

She was a member of the Episcopal Church and in former years, took an active interest in what was then called the Guild.

Services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the residence by Rev. C. A. Pharr and Rev. C. S. Liles, after which her body was buried in Odd elms cemetery.

Pallbearers were J. B. Perry, Sr. H. J. Ray, Arant McDowell, A. M. Carothers, J. M. Talbert and John Presgrove.

Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. Hail Calhoun, three granddaughters, Mesdames E. R. Pleasant and Dudley Crawford and Miss Allie Bridgers and several nephews, among whom is Hon. W. A. Winter.

Thus another link with the distant past is broken.

USO BUILDING TO START SOON

The NCCS renovation of the City Hotel property will start next week, contract therefor having been signed and approved by the higher authorities recently. It is thought likely that work of renovation on the Moss Chevrolet property and work on the erection of a colored USO building near the colored school will start within a week or ten days, certainly as soon as the contract has been approved by higher authorities.

TWO FIRES AT THE SAME TIME

Grenada had two fires at the same time Tuesday night during the heavy electric storm; one at the hospital where electric cables at the elevator were burned out, and another at the residence of J. D. Quinn. The Quins and their neighbors fought the fire on their premises until the fire equipment got through at the hospital.

Fortunately a heavy rain was falling while the fires were in progress. Next time, rain may not be falling.

Horses Still Go to War

Herds of wild horses rounded up from the open ranges of frontier Australia are being tamed and trained for military work by American army forces there. Despite the ascendancy of mechanization in warfare the horse still has a place at the battle zones because of his mobility over difficult terrain. Most of the wild Australian broncos have never seen a human, and must be transformed from nervous, galloping, man-fearing beasts into steady, dependable, domesticated horses. This is accomplished by a process formerly known as "breaking" which American soldiers prefer to call "gentling," as the army horse is trained as gently and humanely as possible so that he loses all fear of mankind.

Stampeding herds of wild horses are guided into the swirling water of a stream by Australian horsemen.

This is what usually happens the first time an attempt is made to saddle one of the broncos.

After he becomes accustomed to the nearness of man, the horse is run into a corral, blindfolded and tied, as a saddle is placed on his back for the first time. When released he usually dashes about the corral trying to buck the saddle off. During the last two weeks of the horse's basic training, bronco busters ride him until he no longer executes wild gyrations when something is placed on his back.

Above: Saddled for the first time, he races around the corral, bucking, fighting and squealing while the men dodge his flying hoofs. Right: This is how they got the saddle on. Below: Calm and ready for duty, a trained horse stands loaded.

Occasionally a filly is born among the wild Australian horses. Here is one which has become a pet of the regiment. She is being treated for a slight cold by Pvt. J. Tuer of Fort Worth, Texas.

Horses such as are trained in Australia will swim rivers with troops and at night they are an advantage over motorized equipment because they can maneuver without lights. The horse is quiet and no other animal can, in an equal measure, endure extreme temperature changes.

Sub Hunting

By James Hirschfeld

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

I was on the bridge of the coast guard cutter Campbell, escorting a big convoy, when there came a message, reporting a submarine 25 miles south of us. We charged full speed for the spot.

Whether we got that first submarine I don't know—you seldom know—but we didn't have time to worry about it. A signal crackled through from another vessel of the escort, a British corvette. With a sister corvette she was attacking another U-boat she had picked up on her sound gear.

With the two corvettes we converged like arrows on the U-boat. Over a wide area we sowed ash-cans. The sea went mad with geysers. Then a great patch of Diesel oil appeared on the sea. It smells like kerosene, but to a submarine hunter's nostrils it is sweeter than violets, for it means that a U-boat has been sunk or damaged. From engine-room to bridge there was joy in the Campbell.

Whole Convoy Attacked. It was then about 1 p. m., and very black. After a final search of the area, we ran back toward the convoy. Presently a splash of cold, white light appeared on the horizon. It grew brighter as we drew nearer, and we heard the rumble of distant explosions. My heart sank. Those lights meant the whole convoy was under attack. Escort ships were throwing up star shells to light the sea better to fight off the raiders.

Leaving the slower corvettes in our wake we raced for the convoy, but before we reached it another message came in from the escort commander. It confirmed my fears. Several ships had been attacked. One had fallen behind. The Campbell was to go to the rescue.

I didn't like leaving the convoy just then, but orders are orders. Foam boiled under our keel as we reversed course. An hour or so later we found the ship 10 miles astern of the convoy. She was just sitting there in the darkness. As we sighted her, a tall tower of water erupted on her port side. The ship was under attack.

Hole Torn in Campbell. Soon we were under attack ourselves. An explosion tore a great hole in the water just astern of the Campbell. It was mighty close. It really shook us up. It sounded as though we were on the inside of an iron boiler which had been slammed with a sledge hammer.

I waited on edge, for a second one. Then our lookouts spotted the U-boat which was throwing the stuff. It was on the surface about a mile away. Through the eerie light of early morning we could make out the cream of her wake and a faint haze from her Diesels. The Campbell bore down on her like a terrier after a rat.

The rat showed no inclination to fight it out. Our guns were just opening when the craft submerged. We dropped a pattern of depth charges, and a few minutes later were again rewarded with that blessed fragrance of Diesel oil. It was the third submarine the Campbell had engaged in less than 12 hours.

About midmorning, our sound gear picked up another submarine. Sub Crash-Dived.

I ran to the starboard side of the bridge, where the men stood pointing. The periscope had vanished. The submarine had crash-dived. We gave it the works.

When it was all over I happened to notice the lookout who had given the alarm. He was beaming like a happy ape.

I had forgotten our prize fund for the men who spotted submarines. Before the end of that voyage, our treasury was exhausted.

It was high noon when the Campbell encountered her fifth Jerry. It was on the surface, about three miles away, and must have had some foolish notion it could outrun us. It soon found that it couldn't, and submerged in a hurry. Again we laid down a pattern of depth charges.

Later that night we sighted our sixth. It was on the surface, about 500 yards off the starboard bow.

For the 12th time in a little more than 24 hours, our gongs clanged "general quarters." The men sprang to their battle stations. We swung hard right to ram. The Campbell raced down on the sub with guns blazing at point-blank range. We really caught that U-boat napping. It was a big one with a large conning tower and heavy armament. We could see men on the deck. Shouting wildly, they tried to bring a deck gun into action. They never had a chance. We raked their deck from stern to stern with machine-gun fire.

Farmers Can Raise Spices Now Imported

Western Hemisphere Can Supply All Needs

Every spice, seed and herb that the United States has been accustomed to importing from the Orient can be grown successfully in the Western hemisphere, either in North or South America, believes John A. Sokol, president of a chemical company bearing his name. In an address before the annual Chemurgic conference recently held in Chicago, he divided the plant products into two groups, according to the climatic conditions under which they grow.

First, he said, is the temperate zone, which covers central Europe, the Mediterranean area, Russia, northern India, and northern China. The second zone would comprise the tropics, semi-tropics, and particularly the East Indies close to the equatorial area.

From the temperate zone we have been importing herbs, such as sage, marjoram, thyme, savory, rosemary, sweet basil, oregano, laurel leaves, saffron, red peppers (papak), and many crude drugs.

From the tropical zone we have been importing peppers, cloves, allspice, ginger, cinnamon, cassia, nutmeg, mace, turmeric, etc.

The items in the first category, namely those grown in the temperate zone, can all be grown in some part of the United States, and the items from the tropical zone could be grown in some of our possessions and also in Central and South America. All of the items under spices for seasoning and condiments could be grown in the Western hemisphere.

That these particular items, he said, could be grown in the United States has been demonstrated.

Other seeds, such as poppy, caraway, dill, coriander, celery, fennel, and anise, have been grown in the United States to some extent. None of these items are available from Europe now and with the present difficulties of obtaining these seeds from India, China and other foreign countries, there are prospects that the growers would find these profitable for the next couple of years at least, Mr. Sokol thinks.

The herbs which have been grown and cultivated here are sage, marjoram, and basil, and an effort is being made to increase their production in this country.

All of the products grown in the United States have been found to be of very good quality and most of them compare very favorably to the products imported from abroad. Also with the American ingenuity to adapt special methods of planting, cultivating and harvesting, much of the low labor cost in foreign countries could be overcome.

Some of the outstanding products which have been grown successfully in the United States are mustard seed, grown in Montana and California, paprika (the sweet grade), grown in California, Louisiana and South Carolina, and sage, marjoram, thyme and basil, grown in practically every state of the United States.

Mr. Sokol continued that he was not giving any figures of the quantities grown, but that he felt assured that with the proper effort and co-operation of the various agencies, American housewives and the food industry can be fully supplied with many of the spice seasonings from products grown in the United States, the tropical possessions, and some of the South American countries.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

One of my correspondents says that in the repairing of her porch last year an end wall with windows was added. She goes on to say that "because of dampness, the carpenter advised painting the new wood with a first coat of oil and turpentine. The entire porch was then given two coats of good paint, but a few months later, the paint on the new wood checked and peeled. The new wood was then repainted, but this summer the same trouble occurred. Apparently, the paint did not penetrate the wood. The first rule in painting is to have the wood thoroughly dry. That first coat of oil and turpentine may have sealed in the dampness, which eventually worked out and loosened the paint. Had the wood been thoroughly dry, the first coat of paint would have penetrated the wood, and in hardening in the pores would have made a good bond. For this, the first coat should have been thinned according to the manufacturer's directions. Many cases of the peeling of paint of which I hear are due to the failure of the painter to follow the instructions of the manufacturer for the thinning of the first coat. In the case in point, the remedy lies in the removal of all paint to the bare wood, and to its replacement at a time when the wood is thoroughly dry. It goes without saying that the first coat should be correctly thinned.

PAINTING NEW WOOD

Cementing Linoleum. Question: What is the right way and what are the correct materials to use to cement linoleum to a wood floor? I wish to do the job myself. Is it best to cement the linoleum directly to the floor, or to place a layer of other material between it and the floor? Answer: See that the wood floor is smooth and all cracks and open spaces between the boards filled with a crack filler. For best results a layer of linoleum felt is cemented down over the wood floor, after which the linoleum should be cemented to the felt. Your local linoleum dealer can supply all the necessary materials.

Interior Finishing

Question: I would like to put in a chair rail, paper above it and panel with plywood. Walls are now tongue and grooved boards. Would quarter-inch plywood be satisfactory for panels below? What would you advise to use on walls above chair rails so that paper can be applied?

Answer: Quarter-inch plywood will do, but three-eighths thickness would be better. Finish the wall above the chair rail with a gypsum wall-board, following manufacturer's instructions on nailing and filling the joints.

Damage From Ivy

Question: The walls of my house are asbestos shingles with a concrete block foundation extending 2 1/2 feet above the ground. The drive is so close to the house that nothing can be planted alongside it except a closely clinging vine. Would a vine such as Boston ivy injure the concrete or the shingles?

Answer: The runners would not harm the concrete, but they might work in under the shingles and loosen them. I should not advise it.

Paper Peels Off

Question: Paper peels off around our big chimney; I do not think it is from dampness. What will prevent this?

Answer: Fur out the wall area around the chimney and fasten gypsum wallboard on the furring strips. Wallpaper can then be applied to the board after the proper coat of sizing has been put on.

Landscaping

Question: Where can I get information on inexpensive landscaping?

Answer: Send 15 cents to the Supt. of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for Vocational Educational Bulletin No. 189, which has the title: "Landscaping the Farmstead." This contains much information that you should find very useful.

Termite-Proofing

Question: I plan to construct a trellis in my garden; I want to protect the underground part against termites in such a way that nearby plants will not be injured. What do you advise?

Answer: Apply one or two soaking coats of coal tar creosote oil to the underground part.

CONSTIPATION HAUNTED ME—

It hung on and on. Medicinal laxatives relieved it only temporarily. Then—I found my constipation was due to lack of "bulk" in my diet. And I also found out that St. Joseph's all-man gets at the cause of such constipation and corrects it. Boy, what I'd been missing before I tried ALL-MAN! It's a swell-tasting breakfast cereal—and, as far as my constipation was concerned, it sure worked. I eat ALL-MAN regularly now and drink plenty of water. And—I've "Joined the Regulars"! ## IMPORTANT FOR GROWERS OF VETCH, WINTER PEAS, CLOVERS

Here are typical reports from farmers who inoculate legumes with NITRAGIN:

"My Austrian peas inoculated with NITRAGIN were a good stand, grew fast and made a good yield. The uninoculated side of the field made poor growth and was yellow all season."

"I always inoculate vetch, clover and peas with NITRAGIN. It is mighty cheap crop insurance."

"My neighbor tells me it made the difference of 50 crops and a successful crop."

"I increased peanut yields 10 bushels per acre."

It costs only about 15c an acre and saves only a few minutes to inoculate legume seed with NITRAGIN—the oldest, most widely used inoculant for all legumes. Get it from your seed supplier, just ask for NITRAGIN. THE NITRAGIN CO., 100 S. SOUTH ST., MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Allied Forces Meet Bitter Resistance In Final Phase of Battle for Sicily; Japanese Employ New Naval Strategy To Supply South Pacific Strongholds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Here's the way the Allies work in setting up a base after landing on hostile shore. As the first Allied wave struck Sicily, men waded deep in water pass supplies ashore from a lighter, while men in foreground prepare roads for tanks and other vehicles.

SICILY: Yanks' Test

More than three divisions of Adolf Hitler's crack German troops took up positions around San Stefano in northern Sicily to await the assault of Gen. George S. Patton's charging American Seventh Army.

The San Stefano region loomed as the Axis' northern anchor for their shrunken lines in the mountainous corner of the island where they found themselves pocketed. Much like the Tunisian terrain, great difficulties confronted Patton's Yankees, who were faced with a tedious crawl up rocky slopes in the face of stiff machine gun and mortar fire.

To the west of the Axis defenses, stood the Canadians, encountering the same obstacles as the Americans. To the south, Gen. Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth Army poised for action against strong German forces, which had held them up in the plains after a slashing tank attack.

Thus the final phase of the battle of Sicily opened.

Five Points for Italy

Successful as a diplomat once before when he pulled Adm. Jean Darian's French North Africa over to the Allied cause, Gen. Dwight "Ike" Eisenhower addressed himself to another soldier, this time Italian Premier Pietro Badoglio, in a bid for Italy's withdrawal from the war.

Commending the Italian people and Italy's royal house for removing Mussolini, General Eisenhower stressed five points in his address to the newly constituted government.

Said General Eisenhower: 1. Only the Germans in Italy are blocking peace; 2. Cessation of hostilities is possible immediately under honorable terms; 3. Discontinuance of assistance by the Italians to German armed forces is a prerequisite of peace; 4. A pledge that Italian war prisoners will be returned if Allied prisoners in Italian hands also are returned; 5. If hostilities cease, the liberties and traditions of Italy will be restored.

PACIFIC: Rip Jap Barges

Although Japan's merchant marine ranked No. 3 among the world's fleets before Pearl Harbor, her maritime position has since slipped in view of her losses and limited ship-building facilities.

As a consequence, the wily Nips have devised a new system for supplying their embattled South Pacific island forces: strongholds are now being supplied through small, swift coastal barges, in which the enemy sail at night, and in which they hide by day in the many coves along the shores of the islands.

Well aware of the Japanese system, American airmen have concentrated much of their bombing against these craft. Barges attempting to stock enemy troops at beleaguered Munda on New Georgia Island have had rough going at the hands of U. S. aviators, and a concentration of the craft at Rein Bay, New Britain, was the target for a heavy Allied assault.

With the Allies threatening their sea-borne supplies and bombarding them from the sky with deadly torpedoes and dive bombers, Jap troops, true to their tradition of fighting to the death, clung desperately to the last perimeter of their defenses at Munda.

Who's News This Week

By Delos Wheeler Lovelace

Consolidated Features—WNU Release.

NEW YORK — Vice-Adm. Frederick Joseph Horne takes a good look ahead through his binoculars and reports that the end of the war is not on the horizon. It may run until 1949 in the Pacific, he says, and he knows plenty about the Far East, and Tokyo in particular. He was in Japan all the time the United States was in the last war. He went out there as naval attaché to the American embassy in January, 1915, and stayed four years. His government handed him the Navy Cross for what he accomplished, and Japan, being one of the Allies in those days, passed him a decoration, too, the Third Order of the Sacred Treasure.

This is the third war in which this native New Yorker, now 63, has had a hand. He had entered the Naval Academy in 1895 at the ripe young age of 15, and while still a midshipman he served in the USS Texas in the scrap with Spain. When the war was over, he went back to Annapolis, graduating in 1899. Since returning from Tokyo, he attended the Naval War College. What's more he went to the Army War College, too.

Back in the mid-Twenties some of his flying officers got his sea dog dander up when they tried to tell him that the orders he gave couldn't be carried out. He promptly had himself assigned for training with the air arm at Pensacola, and in 1926 he was qualified as a naval aviation observer. Later he commanded the aircraft carrier Saratoga. Since March, 1942, he has been one of Admiral King's right bawlers in planning sea operations. Planes are his specialty.

If Katharine F. Lenroot were setting upon a prayer for children, and who would be more likely to pray for them, she might easily

Statistics Are Her Grenades in Battle For Child Welfare

"Old Age! This child shall grow to meet thee only; None of the hundred other deaths shall harm him."

Children have been Miss Lenroot's concern for 30 years and on, and though progress must seem slow she probably would agree that in her time some of those hundred other deaths have been scotched.

Just back from South America she notes that there also at least a few have been: underprivileged children receive low-priced, even free food; medical care spreads. It is 13 years since she was last in South America and she found a change so great "I could hardly believe my eyes."

Ever since she went into the children's bureau of the department of labor, Miss Lenroot has had a strong interest in South America. She is well known there, and speaks Spanish fluently enough to make an easy way from the plateau cities of New Granada to low-lying and windy Puna Arenas, though she might be more comfortable if she stopped at Buenos Aires.

Children everywhere have been Miss Lenroot's strongest interest ever since she came out of the University of Wisconsin. Even earlier she was badgering that state's legislature in their behalf.

After graduation, a novice lawyer, she hired out as a deputy industrial commissioner, but after a couple of years found her life work with the federal bureau at Washington. She has been its chief for ten years, and is an authority on its multitude of problems.

She is a systematic chief and calm, but if the objective is big enough she can make a final drive as headlong as this fellow Patton, now all over Sicily.

She Exposed the Expendability of Nation's Mothers

Statistics once led her to declare in distress that mothers were this country's cheapest commodity, so many of them die in childbirth. If she were saying that now she might put it ironically that they are as expendable as P-T boat crews at Corregidor. Her arsenal of facts and figures is inexhaustible. It would stretch from here to there and back again.

This is not to say that she is dull. Her sense of humor is keen and catholic and her public utterances can amuse as well as devastate, and her voice can charm. She comes from northern Wisconsin where those cold winds off bleak Lake Superior, or something, all too often put an edge on native voices, but hers is low and agreeable.

The figure that encloses the voice is on the stocky side, topped by loosely dressed hair that used to be blonde, about half way between a Harlow platinum and Bette Davis' middling locks.

Geography Is Factor in Determining War's End

Road to Tokyo Both Long and Rough; Pacific Remains Studded With Well-Fortified Japanese Strongholds.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

No victory over Japan before 1949? When that sentiment was broadcast from Washington by Vice Admiral Horne under the aegis of Secretary Knox, a good many eyebrows were raised here in the capital. Of course, it is fully realized here that once the American people think the war is in the bag, they will be ready to resume the plowshare and the pen as simple citizens again, not as dollar-a-year men or munitions workers or victory gardeners or rationers or any of the other things we don't like. So Washington can't afford to be overoptimistic. But 1949 is a long, long way off.

When Admiral Halsey finally admitted that the capture of the important air base of Munda was "within reach," it looked like another easy victory scored and that Tokyo ought to tremble.

About Distances

But how much nearer are we to Tokyo? Get a map of Asia, including the Solomon Islands and if you can identify the little specks which are Guadalcanal where our main base lies, and Rabaul, our objective, note the distance between, and then see how much farther it is to Tokyo. It's as far as from New York to Casablanca.

And there is a lot of difference between the two roads. When we sent our troops over the Atlantic to Africa, it was pretty nearly our pond—there wasn't an Axis base en route. The Pacific is studded with Japanese bases.

There are two powerful Jap strongholds, much better protected than Munda right in the Solomon Islands, on Bougainville island and Rabaul, the hub of the Japs' empire in the Southwest. Beyond, over a long stretch of water, is the little island of Truk, said to be the main Jap naval base in the Pacific.

From New Britain, where Rabaul is located, it is 600 miles to Tokyo—further than from Tunisia to the northern tip of Norway.

In order to realize why we are still so far away from our objective in the Pacific war, we have to consider what it took to get as far as we have already gone. It took six months, some terribly grueling fighting, and many lives, to capture the little island of Guadalcanal. It took another five months before the Allies were ready to start their second offensive movement with the final capture of Rabaul as the objective. Progress at this rate and with this type of island-to-island advance is taken for granted by those who put 1949 as the date when Japan will be vanquished.

Defensive Action

It took MacArthur approximately as long to turn back the Japs on New Guinea, fighting to reach Port Moresby, and to capture their key point of Buna, so they could move on Salamaua and Lae driving the enemy out foot by foot from these pretty much isolated points.

The fighting, up until the drive beginning with the capture of Rendova on June 30, has been nothing more than offensive-defensive. Before that the effort, and a successful one, was to keep the Japs from attacking Australia from Port Moresby, from seizing the Solomons and making the Australian east coast vulnerable and to save the life line of men and supplies moving from America to Australia.

Only now, summer 1943, are we really taking offensive action in the Southwest Pacific and, as I said, if you look at a map of Asia which shows all of the territory held by the Japanese, you will see that what we have since our offensive really began is a very thin sliver, geographically speaking. In enemy effectiveness destroyed, it has been larger in proportion, but the navy men in Washington who talk about 1949 speak with a conservative geographical accent.

That is just an example. The buses are just as crowded. Telephone numbers as hard to get. Laundry lingers as long among the laundresses. Pants pant for pressing.

Recently I tried four leading hotels before I could reserve places for lunch. One of them was not air cooled. "I am ordinarily a two-suit guy," said a newspaper man to me the other day when Donald Nelson was complaining about the heavy buying of clothes, "but if I didn't have four suits now, I'd go to work unpressed and uncleaned or in a barrel."

'The Little Prince'

You recall I reviewed "The Little Prince" by Antoine de Saint-Exupery in this column some time ago. I have had many letters concerning the author whom I said was at the front.

Recently Leonard Lyons, New York columnist, reported that the aviator-author, who is back on the fighting line again although he is 43 years old, wrote to his American translator:

"After seeing the fighting men and the mighty armaments, I realize that I must come to Africa to appreciate America."

He was spared, after the fall of France, "to fight again."

Let us hope he will be spared, when she rises, to write again.

Food Program

It was a cooler and more peaceful day than many which had preceded it in Washington. The President was in a genial mood when he met the press and radio representatives.

The administration, he said, is working on a new food program. A few days before, I talked with a member of the administration who said to me: "Frankly, if we have a food program, I can't find it." And he was very anxious to locate it because a lot of his friends had been asking.

The President, at the conference I referred to, explained that he'd be tickled to death if anyone would explain to him how he could reduce prices in accordance with the stabilization under the present limitations set by congress.

A little bit later, I heard it said flatly: "We've got to increase prices if we expect the farmers to raise enough food to meet the present goals."

Now, Howard Tolley, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, (whose business it is to figure out what is needed, not how we'll get it) says this:

Increased Consumption

"If the United States carries out its proposed international pledge to do all that is needed to provide better diets for its own people, the consumption of dairy products here would have to be increased 40 per cent."

That is just one product—representing, of course, milk, butter, cheese.

In order to bring the national diet up to the standard set, truck crops would also have to be increased about 80 per cent, eggs more than 20 per cent, fruit about 20 per cent, according to Mr. Tolley, and to raise crops for such a market would take about 40 million additional acres of cropland or about one-eighth more than is now cultivated.

With the present full employment, Tolley says that this extra output of the farmer's product could be absorbed. And this leaves out what would be sold abroad.

Right now, industry is working on plans to maintain this "full employment" by converting war plants to peace plants. Industry is trying to compete with the government in post-war planning in this field.

How many farmers are interested enough to get up and say "their say" in favor of a plan that will keep enough people at work so that they can buy this extra 40 million acres' worth of food they need to be healthy?

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—just tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Stop It At Its Source

No persons occupy more important places in the war machine than the medical officers at the various induction centers. These officers, unfortunately for the government, the U. S. Army and the selectees, have muffed the ball many times, causing much trouble. It is up to these officers to determine whether the selectee shall be kept at all, and, if kept, whether to place him in limited service or in a combat outfit.

I know of one young man in my son's Air Corps outfit who died suddenly of heart trouble. Probably this man was among the last to be examined that day and the medical officer was in a hurry to meet his sweetie in town. I know another man sent in the Air Corps who had a double hernia. Probably he was examined in the morning by an officer who had a hang-over from the night before. I know another man, placed in combat service—later transferred by the commander to whom he was assigned to limited service—who had two breaks in his leg and who just could not "take" the strenuous work necessary in a combat unit. Probably the medical officer who examined him was in a hurry to get thru to get a long awig before lunch. I am sure that the combat officers of the Army have had many headaches thrust upon them by reason of negligence or indifference, or both, of medical officers at the induction centers. I am sure that the combat officers could lengthen this list indefinitely.

When a man is sent to a combat outfit, say the 87th Division, his commander assumes that the man can "take it", in other words that he is physically capable of the greatest effort expected of any combat soldier. The man has to "fall out", has to be sent to the hospital, and often discharged, but, in the meantime, he has become the responsibility of the government and must be pensioned or hospitalized. This American has not had a fair deal, for he has been called upon to do the impossible, that is, keep up with physically perfect men. It's not his fault, but the fault of the medical officer at the induction center who, rather than give him a thorough examination, had given him a "once over" and sent him to a duty that the soldier can not fulfill.

Now look at it from the standpoint of the combat officer to whom the unit soldier has been assigned. Sergeant Smith, we shall say, has been trained for some highly specialized position in the unit and has become a vital part of that unit's fighting power. Under some undue physical strain, Sergeant Smith's latent physical trouble becomes active. He has to be hospitalized and, perhaps, reassigned to DSO, or I believe they call it Limited Service. Sgt. Smith's place will be hard to fill. His unit will be out of gear. All the fault of the medical officer at the induction center who, with only cursory examination said, "Oh, hell, you are OK."

Sending imperfect men to combat units piles up liabilities on the government, works great hardships and death on American citizens, retards the war effort, victory, and delays the perfection of combat units. The same practice is true of OVER AGE OFFICERS, they need too much sleep, and get in the way. Watch that soldier and officer over forty.

Aren't Our Faces Red?

Mr. T. D. Davis, who was associate campaign manager of Mr. Murphree in the time prior to the primary, has now associated himself with the campaign of Mr. Bailey. The Clairon-Ledger, recognized as the back log of the Murphree campaign, quotes Mr. Davis in its Sunday edition as follows:

I could not remain inactive and see the Republicans, inside and outside the state, and the so-called Democrats of reactionary designs, plus the combined forces of greed and exploitation, take over the public affairs of the state.

From that I deem that Mr. Davis considers the men who supported Mike Conner as Republicans, reactionaries and forces of greed and exploitation.

Coming from a man who is representing such a GOOD man, that's the worst indictment of 111,000 plus Mississippians I have ever seen.

I do not believe that Mr. Murphree who said "the house of Democracy is my house, and I shall not be driven from it," etc., would sanction a REAL friend of his indicting 111,000 of his fellow Mississippians in such harsh terms.

My God, if one of the little peewees calls us Conner supporters that much, what will the big shots backin' Mr. Bailey call us

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Petitioner

All the unknown bondholders of the various road districts and school districts of Grenada County, Mississippi, and all unknown bondholders, county-wide, Grenada County, Mississippi.

Hugh White Speaking

At the state-wide rally of Conner followers held in Jackson Tuesday, ex-Governor Hugh White, who has been supporting Conner from the beginning, made the following significant statement:

"I am the only man in Mississippi who has been defeated by Mike Conner."

"I followed Mike Conner into the governor's office and I can truthfully tell the people of Mississippi the type of governor he made. And I can truthfully say that not once in my four years in that office did one act of wrongdoing during Mike Conner's term come to my attention."

"It is not a question of politics but rather a question of selecting the man capable of filling the office for the next four years. That man is Mike Conner."

Franklin, A Good Sport

Lester Franklin who was eliminated in his race for governor in the first primary showed he was a good sport when, in an interview in the Commercial Appeal, he stated substantially that he would not presume to dictate to the 35,000 of his followers, nor for personal gain would he be presumptuous enough to seek to say for whom that number would vote in the run off, and indicated that he was strictly neutral in the Bailey-Conner affair.

That is as it should be, for what right has a defeated candidate to seek to tell those who were loyal to him what to do in the run-off?

Lester accepted the verdict of the people as should a good sportsman and that's what he seems to be.

Murphree Swapped Out

The following article from the Jackson Daily News, purporting to explain how Bailey nosed Murphree out of what almost everybody conceded to be a secure place in the run-off was published on Sunday, August 8, 1943:

The mystery of how Tom Bailey pulled ahead of Dennis Murphree within ten days prior to the first primary is no longer a mystery.

It was a case of horse-swapping by some of Murphree's own leaders.

Key men of the administration crowd realized two weeks before the primary that they could not possibly win with Dennis Murphree, so they quietly sent out a tip by word-of-mouth to switch to Bailey, believing the former Speaker of the House might be able to make a stronger race against Mike Conner in the second primary.

In plain English, Dennis Murphree was given a thorough double-crossing by men whom he believed to be his friends.

He was especially high-hearted and hopeful two weeks before election day when a letter from Gov. Johnson pledged him support. That, he felt sure, would put him in the second primary.

But alas and alack! Counting political chickens is always hazardous, both before and after hatching.

In plain English, Dennis Murphree was double-crossed by his own crowd to an extent just sufficient to keep him out of the second primary, and those of his loyal followers who know how and by whom it was done are mighty sore about it. They are not the least bit inclined to now join the Bailey forces. "Get off of Murphree and get on Bailey," was the word-of-mouth message sent out from Jackson—sent by word-of-mouth because politicians never put messages of that sort in writing.

That, in brief, is why the name of Dennis Murphree will not appear on the second primary ticket for Governor.

Practical politicians quit him in cold blood because they thought it better to get away from a loser—and also to look at the side of their bread on which plenty of political butter might appear.

Personally I have no positive knowledge about the facts contained in the above, but I do know that SOMETHING happened to Dennis.

I like Mr. M. C. McDaniel, the new director of the local USO. From a source that I will bet my last penny on, I find that he is a native Mississippian; that he is a Mason; that he is a member of Rotary; that he was president for 17 years of Holmes Junior College and that there are hundreds of graduates of this college who will back him to the hilt; that he is father of six children; that he is a Baptist; and was chairman of the board of deacons in his home town; and that he is a hard and conscientious worker in any cause that he espouses. I have great hopes that, if he is properly backed up, he will be the Moses who leads the USO in Grenada from the wilderness in which it has been wandering for 13 these many months.

It is with regret that I read of the death of Mr. Will C. Hight, founder, owner and editor of the Winston County Journal which he established over fifty years ago, a record hard to surpass in this Nation. It was a great source of pride to him to be able to say that The Journal never missed an issue. Peace to his ashes!!

Ripe Cherries Make Sweet Jams (See Recipe Below)

Jelly Season's Here!

Think of the good cheer in a sparkling, quivery dish of jelly to go with your golden brown biscuits or rolls in the cold of winter. Do you need more than that to start you on a spree of jelly-making? My guess is no.

There's a great interest in jelly-making in spite of sugar rationing, for many is the smart homemaker who realizes what a spark and zest those little bits of bright-colored jelly can lend to wartime meals. So, go out into the berry patch, and let's get started on a batch of jelly.

Cherries, plums and blackberries are coming into season and make splendid jellies. They're all easy to handle and make nice, rich, luscious jellies:

*Ripe Sweet Cherry Jam.
(Makes 7 6-ounce glasses)
3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
4 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, pit about 2 1/4 pounds fully ripe cherries. Crush thoroughly or grind. If a stronger cherry flavor is desired, add a few crushed cherry pits to fruit during cooking.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure fruit into a 5- or 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary.

Place over a hot test fire. Add powdered fruit pectin. Mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in sugar at once, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bringing to a full, rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire. Skim. Pour at once into sterilized jelly glasses and paraffin at once.

*Ripe Plum Jelly.
(Makes 7 medium glasses)
3 cups juice
4 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush about 3 pounds fully ripe plums. Do not peel or pit them. Add 1/4 cup water, bring to a boil and simmer 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag or cloth, and squeeze out juice. Add small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again, if there is a slight shortage of juice.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside. Measure juice into saucepan. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in sugar at once, stirring constantly.

Jams and jellies may be kept for various lengths of time, but for best practical purposes it is best not to try to keep them for over a year.

Melt paraffin for jelly in a small pot over boiling water. Paraffin should not be smoking hot because it might lend a disagreeable odor to the jelly or jam.

It's possible to put up fruit juice to be made into jelly later if you do not have enough sugar to do it during the summer. Prepare fruit according to directions given in the jelly recipes but do not add water to the recipe. Squeeze the juice in a jelly bag if it is for jelly. Fill hot sterile jars with juice and process in a boiling water bath for 20 minutes.

Your Canning Cupboard

- *Ripe Sweet Cherry Jam
- *Ripe Plum Jelly
- *Cucumber-Raisin Pickles
- *Ripe Cucumber Sweet Pickles
- *Peach Nectar
- *Recipe Given

Continue stirring, bring to a full, rolling boil, and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, and pour into glasses quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

*Blackberry and Sour Cherry Jam.
(Makes 5 medium glasses)
3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
4 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush thoroughly about 1 quart fully ripe blackberries. Pit 1 pound fully ripe cherries. Crush thoroughly or grind. Combine fruits. Measure fruit into a kettle, filling last fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour sugar in at once, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. You'll enjoy pickles, too, for your winter menu pickups. I've found some perfectly delightful recipes for you which will not take too much sugar—just in case you want to use most of the sugar on jams and jellies. Remember that you must use a pure apple cider vinegar and good, firm, fresh cucumbers to get nice, crisp pickles:

*Cucumber-Raisin Pickles
4 cups sliced cucumbers
1 cup salt
1 cup white vinegar
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons raisins
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon mustard seed

Soak cucumbers overnight in salt solution made of 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water. Drain. Combine remaining ingredients and beat to boiling. Add cucumbers. Boil 10 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal at once.

*Ripe Cucumber Sweet Pickles.
5 large ripe cucumbers
1/2 pound stick cinnamon or oil of cinnamon
1 ounce cloves (or oil of cloves)
1 1/2 pints vinegar
3 pounds sugar

Paraffin the cucumbers, quarter. Take out seeds and cut quarters into medium-sized pieces. Scald in salted water (2 tablespoons salt to 1 quart water). Drain and simmer in clear water until they are tender but firm. Drain well. Tie the spices in a bag and boil them with vinegar and sugar for 5 minutes. Pour this mixture over cucumbers, cover jar and set away. Next day pour off syrup and boil for 10 minutes, then pour over cucumbers again. Flavor is improved by repeating the process several times.

With last heating, place pickles in clean, sterilized jars, cover with hot solution and seal at once.

Like fruit drinks for winter? You can make delicious nectars out of fruits easily and use them when fresh fruit juices are no longer available:

*Peach Nectar.
Select sound, ripe fruit. Peel and crush. Combine 4 cups fruit with 3 cups water and heat slowly to simmering. Press through colander, then through fine sieve. To each pound of fruit pulp and juice, add 1/4 pound of sugar. Bring to simmering temperature. Stir until sugar is well dissolved. Pour into clean, sterile jars. Put on cap. Process 20 minutes in a water bath at simmering temperature (180 degrees F).

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 15

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts are selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

GOD PROVIDES FOR HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 16:11-15; 17:2-4.
GOLDEN TEXT—Give us this day our daily bread.—Matthew 6:11.

Only God can provide the necessities of life. Rationing has taught us that lesson anew if we have been at all thoughtful about it. The plan is one of sharing. Sharing what? The food and other provisions which come to us from God's hand. Unless our crops are good there will be less to share. Only God can help us.

This was the lesson Israel learned in the wilderness. To reach the goal to which God was leading them they must pass through the wilderness. Not only were there many weary miles to travel, but there were privations to be borne. Life is like that.

Now they cried for food. Note how elemental are man's needs in the final analysis—bread and water. The very things we take almost for granted as we concern ourselves with life's weighty interests and profound problems become, if lacking, the only things that have any real meaning. And who is it that can provide them? No one but God Himself.

I. Bread from Heaven (Exod. 16: 11-15).

Israel's longing for meat was met by the miraculous coming of quantities of quail (v. 13). But that was not the food to sustain them day after day. For this they needed bread, and it came from heaven, every day until they entered the promised land (Josh. 5:12).

Observe four things about the manna.

First, it was a divine provision. There are responsibilities in life which we may bear—and must bear—but in the ultimate meeting of our real needs we must look to God.

Secondly, it was a daily provision. What forehanded folk many of us are, and no doubt rightly so, for God puts no premium on improvidence. But once again we must recognize, as did Israel in receiving the daily manna in the wilderness, that ours is indeed a moment by moment existence.

We plan bravely for the next decade or the next generation, but as a matter of fact it can only come to pass "if the Lord will" (read James 5:13-17).

Next, it was a limited provision—enough for the day and no more, except for a double portion on the sixth day, and none at all on the Sabbath. These provisions were made clear to Israel, and yet there were those who attempted to lay up for the morrow, and some even went out to seek manna on the Sabbath day.

We marvel at their stubborn obtuseness, but are we not often just like them. Some there are who are always expecting that the laws of both God and man should be set aside for them, but they come to grief.

Finally, it called for diligence and action on their part. They had to be out early each day (except the Sabbath) to gather it. God's mercies are for those who are willing to obey Him. He gives to those who receive by active faith.

II. Water from the Rock (Exod. 17:2-6).

"And the people thirsted"—for the daily manna was not enough, they must have water. Needy, yes, constantly needy are God's children.

"Every life knows the bite of necessity . . . every soul cries out in pain because there is wanting some completing favor, some culminating and all-containing benediction. Here it is bread; there it is water; but everywhere a famine . . . in many a case a famine of soul, a spiritual destitution, a consciousness of a void which time cannot satisfy or space content."

God always provides. There is a rock in the wilderness. But what pleasure does a murmuring people find in a rock when they famish for water? It is God's delightful custom to meet our needs in unexpected ways and by means which we do not understand. Even our physical necessities come from unthought of sources.

III. Christ, the Bread and Water of Life.

Our lesson does not give the New Testament application of Israel's experiences, but let us not miss that blessed spiritual truth.

In John 6:31-33, Christ is declared to be the true bread from heaven, of which the manna was but a type.

Paul speaks in I Corinthians 10: 1-4 of this incident in the history of Israel, saying that they "did all eat the same spiritual meat, and did all drink the same spiritual drink; for they drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ" (see also John 4:14).

Hungry and thirsty soul, you who are still unsatisfied after tasting all that life apart from Christ has to offer, will you not, just now, take Him?

Household Hints

For longer service wash cotton garments according to the instructions on the label.

Have you ever tried drying the dishes with twin dish towels? A fresh dry towel in each hand disposes of them in the proverbial twinkling of an eye.

Mending a small snag or rip before an article goes into the washing machine may save a larger patch later on.

A little starch added to the water with which mirrors are washed will remove soil and give a polish to the glass.

Save colored bottles that beverages come in and use them for holding trailing vines, sprays or other greenery. They add a note of color to glass shelves in windows or in flower racks.

To prevent figs, dates or raisins from clogging the food chopper add a few drops of lemon juice.

If you buy wool material that isn't preshrunk, it's wise to steam-press it to shrink it before cutting out a garment.

Hard Workers
Hard workers are usually honest. Industry lifts them above temptation.—Bovee.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The basis of modern rubber usage is vulcanization, a word that is derived from Vulcan, the Greek God of Fire.

The cryptostegia vine yields about 17 drops of rubber latex a day, a seven-year-old Hevea tree three to six pounds of rubber a year. Properly treated Hevea trees, when 10 years old, can give from 1000 to 1500 pounds of rubber per acre per year. About eleven pounds of rubber are used in making a small automobile tire.

Latex rubber articles that when stored, allowing them to assume their natural position. Rubber loses its life when under a permanent strain.

Beggar Woman Quickly Made an About Face

He was extremely mean, and pretty well known for this characteristic in the town where he lived. One day an old beggar woman, new to the district, began her appeal. Mr. Mean put his hand into his pocket as he approached, and she, full of hope, began to pour down blessings on his head.

"May the blessing of Heaven follow after you," she said, "all the days of your life."

Mr. Mean extracted his handkerchief and blew his nose as he passed on—but the woman, whose hopes were dashed to the ground, was not at a loss:

"And never catch up wid ye!" she added viciously.

Make This Chair Frame of Scrap Lumber—It's Quite Easy to Cover

THERE is no reason that you should do without smart looking upholstered chairs while you are awaiting the day that you will have the living room furniture that you have always dreamed about. Scraps of lumber and plywood or even old packing boxes may be used to make simple chair frames and there are no priorities on cotton padding and sturdy cotton covering materials.

A simple frame for a chair of this type is shown here. It is padded with cotton batting basted to pieces of unbleached muslin cut to fit the back and well over the sides of the seat. A separate cushion filled with cotton, down or feathers is then made for the seat. Either plain or figured material with contrasting seam welting may be used for covering.

No Soviet President

The Soviet union has no president. The man who is generally called "President," even by the heads of many other governments, is Mikhail Kalinin, chairman of the Presidium. This is a 42-member "Congressional Committee," which carries on the work of the 1,300-member Supreme Soviet, the highest executive body, when the latter is not in session.

MIKE CONNER thanks
the People of Mississippi

You, the men and women of Mississippi have spoken. You have endorsed my candidacy for governor with a total of over 107,000 votes. You have honored me with a majority over my nearest opponent of approximately 40,000 votes, giving me the lead over him in 69 counties. You gave me first place over all opponents in 53 counties and you put me in either first or second place in every county in Mississippi with the exception of four. My nearest opponent ran first in only 10 counties.

For your most generous expression I am deeply grateful. Your confidence and support encourage me to continue with increased vigor my fight for a sound administration of the people's business.

I feel that your vote was an endorsement of my record and of the service I rendered as governor of Mississippi in the dark days of the depression, and an expression of your confidence in me to faithfully and efficiently serve you as governor during the critical period of reconstruction which lies ahead.

I also feel that your vote was an endorsement of the clean campaign we waged in the first primary and that you want us to carry on in the run-off in the same way.

Let me thank each and every one of you for your loyalty and vote, and urge you to continue the good work. We cordially invite the friends of Dennis Murphree and Lester Franklin to join with us on August 24th to pile up an overwhelming majority for AGGRESSIVE, COURAGEOUS AND CONSTRUCTIVE government in Mississippi.

Sincerely yours,

Mike Conner
